

Supreme Existence

Contributed by Abdun Nūr J.

We exist, consciously.

We stand on the surface of the Earth, seemingly fixed, motionless.

But in truth we are spinning around with the Earth at more than a thousand miles an hour, the Earth itself is orbiting the Sun at around 19 miles a second, and the Sun is orbiting the galaxy at about 140 miles per second, while the galaxy is rushing out from the centre of the universe at about 1250 miles per second, you may think this is the end of the story, but it is only the beginning, the fact you are moving in at least four directions simultaneously whilst standing still is a commonly accepted truth, upon explanation.

In a materialistic point of view (Conventional physics), you could ask what does our entire Universe consists of?

Is it baryonic, ordinary matter - the stuff of stars and of people - this makes up just over 4% of the energy and matter in the universe if viewed as a gravity driven universe, but the universe is not Einsteinian/Newtonian gravity based. We exist within an electro-magnetic electrically charged plasma-based universe. Plasma is ionised gas; it is a good conductor of electricity, and reacts to a magnetic field, this means (if you exclude the incorrect conventional physics) 99.9% of the universe is simply plasma, and baryonic matter beyond the gases is only a tiny fraction of the energy pattern, we exist within an energy system free of the Newtonian gravity misunderstanding, powered by energy attractions, repulsions and interactions.

Put another way the matter density of the universe is extremely low. On average, there might be one atom per cubic meter of space.

Conventional physics creates fantasies to explain its errors, it tells us approximately 30% of the missing matter of the universe is dark (unobserved) matter (not emitting detectable energy). The remaining two-thirds, Conventional theorists believe (or mislead), is a mysterious 'dark energy' or 'quintessence' - a large-scale antigravity-like effect that is making the universe expand ever faster, simply a theory created to manifest the vision of a materialistic Newtonian gravity universe, absolutely unproved and in fact impossible to prove, as the weak force of gravity, if the universe was powered by gravity (attraction of mass), would require 96% more matter than has been observed, but not in a electro-magnetic plasma universe. So many rationalisations based on the belief in a gravity driven universe have been established, the concept of black holes a theory without merit, (as the theoretic idea of gravity is an instantaneous force, a fact that immediately breaks the Conventional laws of physics, which state nothing can travel faster than light, although some energies do), also the idea of infinite compression, another lie, they cannot even compress water, compressive force is countered by the fluidic underlying structure, you can increase the pressure to any extreme but the volume will not alter greatly, making it impossible to overcome volume, so they establish a poor attempt at a rationalisation of a materialistic fundamentally flawed gravity universe, and for that matter the misconception of a compressed universe exploding out in a big bang. (See 'The formation of a galaxy, evolving a universe', also 'A Big Bang A Big Lie')

Another example: the concept of a star as a nuclear reactor makes no sense, where the surface is only about 6000 C while the atmosphere above it is about 2000000 C, but this would be expected if the star was a plasma ball, fuelled with electro-magnetic energy, producing electro luminescence. The power of the star is pulled directly from the underlying manifold from the outside in, through the process of the vast dipole at its heart. Energy.

So is matter itself energy; Energy = Mass x the speed of light squared ($E=Mc^2$) which expresses matter as energy, which is true, but not exactly accurate, it should be $E=Tc^2$ which will become clear as you read on, as only time mass exists, so if the material Universe is simply energy, what is energy?

Curiously conventional physicists do not know what energy is, absolutely nothing is known, no theories have been conceived, no understand glimpsed, only the flow and interactions of energy to a limited degree are understood, they don't even know exactly what charge is, only what it does. Or, equally significantly, what it does not do.

Energy is truth, it is palpable knowledge, all of creation is expanding, transforming, evolving information, consciously connected, each form of energy can be transduced into another, it can jump from virtual to physical and back again, it can evolve from state to state.

The very expression 'energy source' is actually a misnomer, nothing can be an energy source, or sink in the conventional sense, devices we call energy sources do not create energy, they convert it from not suitable for our needs to a form that is suitable, a form we can do work with, generally needlessly, as all energy is simply extracted from the underlying manifold and perceived as converted.

This energy is converted or extracted in a universal open energy system, consciously interactive with the living manifold, across the membrane of virtual reality. This proved exchange is denied by conventional physics, but all the contrived laws of thermodynamics are false, a closed energy system can not be intentionally manufactured within this entire universe, so the expressed view that energy cannot be created nor destroyed, is both the basis of modern physics, and its complete down fall, it is a lie maintained, as to accept the truth, would impact upon humanity so great a revelation, as to open the doors of truth so wide, man would be utterly transformed. You would think, logically this would be a transformation that would be welcomed, but we as a family are subjugated, and the sovereigns wish to maintain this subjugation, and so we are fed lies, remaining confused and held in wilful ignorance.

A physical universe in an open energy system, exchanging transduced energy across boundaries allowing both the special energy of Matter (time mass), and all other forms of energy, to transform, or interact, or remain in space time.

Nothing except energy (truth) exists, absolutely nothing, as all physical matter is ultimately positive and negative energy in conflict or attraction, a state of dichotomy, but energy cannot exist without the fourth dimension of time; so what is time? Time.

At any moment time exists everywhere simultaneously throughout the universe. In short, time is a multiple connection in three-dimensional space. All electromagnetic energy in three-dimensional space comes from the time domain locally and returns to the time domain locally, in a giant negentropic circulation.

(Negentropy is reverse entropy. It means things becoming more in order.

Time in science is defined as the direction of entropy. This makes it very hard to talk about ideas of time that would apply to negentropy or its effects.

Life is considered to be negentropic because it takes things in less order, like dead food, and turns it into things in more order, like cells in the body, tissues, and organs.)

Time is compacted by the factor c (speed of light), so making it the same energy density as mass, but the highly compressed spatial energy has been rotated into the time domain to 'produce time' rather than remain in three dimensional space to 'produce mass'. Photons transfer the information of many things, this is why the speed of the photon dictates the speed of time, as it can only move as fast as the information system.

An example of this would be the speed of light, time if unhindered would pass at the speed of light through a vacuum, but if you extract energy from the time manifold, it would slow time locally around the drain, making light pass through the area of the energy drain far slower, as happens with light passing close to a star, because within the fluidic manifold, at the point of charge release into the physical, the demands on the fluidic medium reduce the movement of the information, time can even be arrested locally around the energy drain.

In other words the entire Universe is emanated from a dense highly concentrated infinite sea of energy (truth, knowledge), without spaces, no vacuum, no void, only energy (a tiny fraction observable, the physical universe, but far more active in its substantive state as the fluidic manifold (originally called ether), energetically interactive, almost all physically active energy is virtual, held within the underlying manifold that manifests this physical reality), of which we know little directly, so this means Energy = Time x the speed of light squared ($E=Tc^2$). This infinite ocean of energy is so dense, in every single cubic centimetre is held more energy than all the visible universe combined, consider it this way, it is estimated (if you accept the milky way as an average galaxy holding approximately 500 billion stars) there exists, extrapolating out, taking from an average of the available observations (approximately 500 billion galaxies), approximately 250,000,000,000,000,000,000 stars, if you allow a single grain of sand 1mm^3 to represent one star, the visible stars of our universe would conservatively have a mass, of approx. $250,000,000,000,000\text{m}^3$ (250 trillion m^3), possibly considerably more as the number of stars can only be roughly judged, because humanities knowledge of the universe grows ever greater, as humanity delves ever deeper, so around 250,000 cubic kilometres of sand, each grain representing a star, and all that energy is held within each and every single cubic centimetre of infinity, this gives you both a perspective of the scale of the universe and the scale of Allah (Not God)(See essay, 'God and Allah', to understand the difference), please note the infinite energy of Allah (Not God) is beyond our ability to observe so only the energy concepts understandable within our universe are described, Allah (Not God, the overarching dichotomy) is beyond comprehension, beyond a conceptual perception.

Time energy, or electromagnetic spatial energy, is required to drive a mass through time, just as spatial energy is required to drive a mass through space. Mass continually moves through the energetic of space-time, and interacts continuously with it.

Space-time is charged, but with observably mass-less (virtual) charge, meaning energy outside of our ability to detect it practically. Time is a circulation, as a linear extension of the underlying circular time reality, it begins with the release or adaptation of charge, which generates action, and emits photons causing a ripple as it spins through fluidic space, twisting, corkscrewing out through the fluidic ether and generating a physical wake within observable space, from this helix carrier wave, upon impact, the encoded source information is absorbed, then refracted anew back into fluidic space, and again as a wake into physical space, encoded with the new information from the newly impacted source point. (See &Time Explained’)

This energetic pervasive information alteration is part of the transport system of time, this in effect means that electro luminescence (light) is the perception of time for consciousness, and so the perception of the reality of the existence of the physical universe.

This helix carrier wave consisting of two types of energy: a weak spring (decompressed energy, or the wake surfacing within the physical), and a very stout spring (time energy, composed of a helix fluidic current carrier wave, holding the encoded knowledge).

When a mass absorbs the fluidic ripple, the component is compressed spatially by the speed of light, turning it into an extra amount of mass, so that the mass becomes mass time by absorption, consider it in another way, light carries information, both to a point of absorption, and then when absorbed it carries that absorption information back into the fluidic ether, building a linear progression as a indelible record within time. So helix carrier waves are emitted from mass, travel out to a new point, then absorbed back into mass and so there encoded information return to the fluidic manifold ending the wave, or possibly refracted again dependent upon the recipient of the impact, this is an information circulation, of poetic elegance.

Mass alone does not exist outside of time, but mass time does exist in time, the state time mass is an excited, time-charged state, excited by very dense time-energy.

Conventional physics presents electromagnetic waves as two dimensional (as they view the wake as the only event), formed from two transverse (at right angles to the source point) waves, this is incorrect, electromagnetic waves are polarised transverse helix waves, three dimensional formed from two intertwined helices.

These detectable pressure waves are caused by the movement of information through the virtual fluidic manifold, physically experienced as the wake of the journey, the ripples of disturbance, just as the wake of a fish travelling through the ocean, an ocean and a fish we can not observe, only the result of the events surface in our reality.

Visible light is an example of an electromagnetic pressure wave, demonstrating information transfer and the physical properties of virtual geometric order.Reality.

What happens when we think we see an &observable moving through space’ is a continual series of very fast three spatial snapshots observations, one after the other in serial fashion (much like the individual frames of a motion picture film). The human brain and mind processing have &always interpreted’ this serial set of iterative operations occurring in the eyes and in the physical senses - and continually recalled and processed by the mind - as an &observable persisting in time,’ which it is NOT.

The implications of the observation process, which yields a frozen three-dimensional space snapshot existing only at a single instant. Thus any three-dimensional space energy existing there in that frozen instant had to just come from four-dimensional space (from the time domain via the giant negentropy process, if we take the view that &the past exists only in time itself’). In other words Allah (Not God) manifests all of creation into existence instant by instant, without the energy of the infinite making manifest all physical reality nothing would be apparent, a conscious interaction generated at least 429,228,004,229,952 times a second, this is the atomic resonance of strontium.

To understand this universe consider that the illumination of existence is the expression of the imagination of Allah (Not God) physically rendered, each fraction of a millisecond like a pervasive 3D energy distribution, fixed, followed by another pervasive 3D energy reorganisation, fixed, and so on, generating the passage of time, applying independently upon each quantum component.

Time itself is only highly compressed energy, so again only energy (truth or Knowledge) exists, absolutely nothing else. Linear time is an illusion of our perception, that the overarching dichotomy manifest through the tension of the two opposing forces, the tension is so inconceivable powerful in its potency, that between these two absolutes, a single consciousness manifests all realities through pure transfinite imagination.Perceived Linear Events Recorded.

The energy of time holds every instant of every point of space within a permanent record, even the memory and conscious thoughts of the human mind are held within this energy, not within the human brain (a second personal record of our individual experiences is held within our own organic electromagnetic energy field), every memory and thought is held within the energy of time, within Allah (Not God), manifest as the electro-magnetic field. Once more only the wake of our field is perceptible within the physical, each persons organic plasma emotional consciousness is within the fluidic manifold, more than the physical universe.

No vision can encompass Allah (Not God) while Allah (Not God) encompasses all vision. Allah (Not God) is Subtle, Unfathomable, and therefore beyond physical perception. Allah (Not God) is Aware of the minutest details (Surah 6:103)

However the illusion of space exists, but what is voluminous space? Voluminous Physical Space.

Space is not smooth and continuous but instead comprises indivisible chunks just 10 -35 meters in diameter. Space-time can be defined as a network of abstract links that connect these volumes of space, these links can wrap around one another to form geometric structures possessing length and width, (two dimensions) which can twist together to form the helix, (three dimensions) and can twist clockwise or anticlockwise along their length to produce charge (positive one way, negative the other) you can understand this in considering the Universe as a giant quantum computer, where each quantum of space is replaced by a bit of quantum information. These bits of information named, 'qubits'; demonstrate resilience, preserving the quantum braids in space-time, and this explains how particles could be so long-lived amid the quantum turbulence, so this can be understood as a web of information.

This also demonstrates how charge is related to volume, and how photons transfer information from one point of geometric space to another and record it within the helix of volume.

So three dimensional voluminous space is generated from physically transfinite virtual geometric helix structures, interconnected, indestructible, the helix structures holding permanent records of events, ultimately this information store must form ever greater amounts of physical voluminous space, expanding the volume of the physical universe at the passing of every instant, retaining every event of that instant within the geometric helix structures. Quantitatively the physical elements of our reality hold at a ratio of 99.99% of the whole holding a common structure, the remaining drop quantitatively is 99% of the remaining common structure, the remaining drop quantitatively is 99.99% of the remaining common structure, this continues, the pattern holds as a proportional ratio of creation, each a drop in the next. So 99.99% of matter is plasma, or 99.99% of all solid mass is crystalline, etc.

When the helix structure exist within the physical as solid mass, or plasma, or liquid, or gas, the energy wakes they generate exist within and affect the virtual, the helix holds the information of the particle, the energy fields intermingle and the virtual wakes interact generating a physical effect within our reality. These wakes of interacting electromagnetic pressure waves of the fluidic manifold, from the virtual movements of these virtual helix oscillations, generates the localised effect of electro-gravitational attraction, just as the physical wakes interaction through movement of different wakes against each other can draw the virtual into the physical, as happens with a dynamo, this is an asymmetrical corollary.

Another way of explaining this is, gravity is generated from the interference of electromagnetic field generated from matter, these field interact, a localised weak force is the result, thousands of billions of times weaker than the electromagnetic force. Shells within shells.

Fluid-dynamic, wave-resonance mechanisms form a pattern of repeating, concentric, square-of-the-distance shells, virtual fluidic pressure bubbles, contiguous to the core of every structure from the atom, to the Earth, to the solar system and beyond, set at a common ratio proportionately, hold reality in order, the differential fractal structure repeating throughout all realities.

And if all the trees on earth were pens, and the sea were ink, with seven more seas yet added, the Words of Allah (Not God) would not be exhausted (Surah 31:27)

Allah (Not God), the single consciousness, emanates the conscious energy of all creations, from the nucleus of everything out, from an infinite source point, due to the circular time structure of the underlying realities, so consider this rather than any concept of a God or human shaped personification. (See 'Transfinite Consciousness') Dimensions.

We exist in spatial dimensions generated by a web of information, knowledge if you will, forming an ocean of virtual energy, so the first three are well known, length, width and height, three dimensional space, the fourth dimension is time, all held and emanated from a universal fluidic manifold, but seven other spatial dimensions exist simultaneously surrounding yet inclusive of both our physical universe and the manifold emanating this physical universe, meaning that we exist within eleven dimensional space (the ocean of energy is eleven dimensional), as inaccurately expressed in membrane theory.

However as described previously space is not a fixed point, it is a very fleeting point, so fleeting it could never be observed, spinning in many directions simultaneously, this system allows no truly fixed point in space, possibly so it can be pooled at a far greater density within the manifold. (See 'Melded Multiple Infinities')

Allah (Not God) it is who has created seven Highs and their seven Lows. Through all of them descends Allah's (Not Gods) Command. (This is said) for you to know that Allah (Not God) is the Powerful Appointer of Allah's (Not Gods) Laws. Allah (Not God) has gauged everything, and that Allah (Not God) encompasses all things in Allah (Not God)’s Knowledge. (Surah 65:12)

And We have created above you seven layered heavens, and never have We been of (Our) creation unaware. (Surah 23, 17)

Yet another element of this verse points out that Allah (Not God) has created Adam, the world, the universe, the seven layered heavens, and all they encompass, but Allah is greater still, as Allah (Not God) exists even beyond this creation, having created this from Allah’s (Not Gods) infinite knowledge demands Allah (Not God) be greater, creating all from a location before creation.

I say Not God, as no God exists, a God is a controlling force that dominates the universe, this is not true, Allah is Not God, Allah is the only thing that exists, a single consciousness, that emanates everything instant by instant from the inside out, to understand this properly read the linked essay’s within this essay, or on the website.

The concept of infinity has just become redefined; the universe is in fact a single infinity, layered as multi infinite nesting dimensions, melded integrally within each other.

If you feel daunted by the scale of the universe, the universe is truly daunted by the scale of Allah (Not God) in equal measure.

To amplify this single infinity, layered as multi infinite melded dimensions, to even more incredible proportions, we only utilize a few fields and frequencies of the energy mass, of the theoretical infinite diversity available, this means within the same four dimensional space, above and beyond the universes of the additional spatial dimensions, ethereal multiple realities could exist within our universal space, this of course is assuming Allah (Not God) is, or would desire to be, in every possible facet infinite.Holographic.

In truth the physical is an illusion, holographic in nature as an analogy, as we employ only a cubic centimetre of an infinite energy mass, of the energy (thought) of Allah (Not God), dispersed over infinity as a back drop to our interactions and understandings, we are unaware of reality, we dream in consciousness, culminating at the conclusion of the human experience, simply as the sum of our actions linked with their intensions held fixed as an indelible record within the energy of time, held to account from the conviction of our beliefs, the result of which is the product of this physical journey, the transformation of your emotional energy, from entropy to negentropy.

However, we have consciousness that is separate from the energy you may think. No.Consciousness.

Our unique, organic, electromagnetic plasma field (expressed as the soul within religion), scientifically construct objective reality by interpreting a minuscule fraction of the frequencies and fields of the energy, using our physical senses, reality is ultimately projections from another spatial dimension as described above, a deeper order of existence that is beyond both space and time, as the linear time we are aware of, has no bearing on the sea of infinite energy which exists within all perceived time simultaneously, we record every event we are exposed to, forced to carry out, premeditatedly act out, or any situational driven reaction we perform, within this brief life, in the essential conscious organic electromagnetic energy we all possess (in truth we are organic electromagnetic entities, our energy field circulates through the heart).

It is the fire of Allah (Not God), (eternally) fuelled, which mounts directed at the hearts. (Surah 104, 6 - 7)

The infinite seas of infinite energy is conscious, the actions and interactions of the entire system are a conscious creation, the imagination of a single conscious infinity, layered as multi infinite melded dimensional reality, pure energy, pure knowledge, pure truth, pure Allah (Not God).

Making consciousness simply another facet of the energy, as absolutely nothing else exists, additionally every individual is unique because they are a space-time path rather than merely a physical object.

The Qur’an describes Allah (Not God) as follows. ‘Allah (Not God) is the light of the heavens and the earth. The parable of Allah’s (Not Gods) light is, as it were, as a pillar (or niche) on which is a burning wick-the burning wick is in a glass (lamp), the glass is as it were a shining pearly white as a radiant star-lit from a blessed olive tree, neither eastern nor western, the oil whereof would well-nigh give light, though fire touch it not - light upon light. Allah (Not God) guides to Allah’s (Not Gods) light whom Allah (Not God) pleases. And Allah (Not God) sets forth parables for men, and Allah (Not God) is knower of all things.’ (The Qur’an 24:35)

All energy is conscious at some level, if viewed from its source, consciousness so subtle as to be almost unperceivable, yet all are on a journey of evolution, energy is in a constant state of flux, as change is the fundamental state of reality.

The concept "Allah (Not God)" is in direct opposition to any concept of “GOD”, as the proof of physical evidence based science makes clear, there is not a duality of a God and “a separate universe”, ONLY

Allah (Not God) exists, being the out pouring of the tension of the single overarching dichotomy.

The meaning of the concept of Allah (Not God) constitutes the basis of Islam and must be understood:NOT: "There is no God; there is only God," which is obviously, wholly simple-minded.

The fundamental state of a person who attained the Truth is his removal from faith as a basis, since one need not have "faith", a state of ignorance, in what is already apparent!

"There is No faith, there is only firm belief established through reason."

"There is No Worship, there is only submission and servitude." Meaning we must work for the transformation of humanity, not the pointless worship to a sky god.

"There is No religion, there is only deen or erudition of existence (Guidance and comprehension, originating from the singular consciousness, discernible within the text of the Qur'an (Divine energy))"

"There is No following blindly, there is only searching out the truth".

We have been created for knowledge alone.

Allah (Not God) has no beginning and Allah (The out pouring of the tension generated from the single overarching dichotomy) has no ending. Allah (Not God) is the Evident in Allah's Attributes and the Hidden in Allah's Nature. And Allah is the Knower of all things. (Time and Space are Allah's (Not Gods) creation, the totality of which is beyond the grasp of human intellect). (Surah 57:3)